

CPD interactive blog disclaimer

Opinions and comments expressed within CPD Interactive are those of their authors alone, and do not necessarily reflect the opinions of AAT or any AAT employee. AAT is not responsible for the content of such opinions and comments.

The Association of Accounting Technicians (AAT) provides CPD Interactive to facilitate its members' free discussion of accounting issues. Persons using CPD Interactive must not post offensive or defamatory material. Breach of this condition may result in disciplinary or legal action. If you are in doubt as to whether material is suitable for posting, please telephone the number below to discuss this with a member of AAT staff, or raise your query by email.

AAT is unable to monitor material prior to its posting but monitors the content of this site daily and will remove any offensive or defamatory material when it is identified. However, there is potential for such material to be displayed for some time before it is discovered by AAT. If you see any material that you think may be offensive or defamatory, please bring it to the attention of AAT by telephoning the number or emailing the address below.

For assistance, please telephone 0845 863 0794 or email cpdinfo@aat.org.uk